A calm and nurturing home in the heart of Cornwall, Trewithen empowers adults to grow in confidence and enjoy life to the fullest. We specialise in supporting people with autism and learning disabilities, including those with complex behaviours.

Introducing Trewithen

Trewithen is a residential care home for up to five adults, specialising in supporting people with autism and learning disabilities, including those with complex behaviours. Located just outside the main town, its quiet setting provides a calm and comfortable environment for those who may find busy areas overwhelming.

Our dedicated team empowers each person to live the life they choose, promoting independence and emotional well-being. Individuals at Trewithen enjoy a variety of solo and group activities, often sharing common interests that help build positive peer relationships.

The home's garden provides a relaxing outdoor space and has been a key focus for development over the summer months. Together, the team and individuals have been working to make it an inviting and enjoyable area – a goal that continues to evolve.

About Trewithen

Trewithen is a dormer bungalow nestled in the woods on the outskirts of Camborne, Cornwall. The home features five ensuite bedrooms – four on the first floor and one on the ground floor – along with a spacious kitchen-diner, two communal lounge areas, and an office. There is also an additional room upstairs for overnight staff.

Outside, the property offers a large driveway with parking, a garage, and a generous rear garden. One individual also has a private garden room within the grounds. Trewithen is around a 20-minute walk from local train and bus links and is surrounded by beautiful woodland walks.
